“Justin O. Blackwelder [#52F227], '39, Gr. '40, of Naples, Fla., February 1, at 80, of cancer. He grew up on the Stanford campus, where his father was dean of the school of geology. A member of Phi Kappa Sigma, he served in the Army Air Corps in England, France and Holland. He was executive director of the Atlantic Union Committee in Washington, D.C., from 1952-63. In 1963, he served on the Population Crisis Committee as assistant to its first president. In 1973, he founded the Environmental Fund, a private foundation to create awareness of the consequences of overpopulation. He was a charter member of the City Tavern Club in Georgetown. Survivors: his wife, Janet, '39; his daughter, Robin Kelly; three sisters; and his brother.”

“Martha Jean Blackwelder Merk [#52F222], '29, of Portola Valley, in July, at 91, of thrombosis. She came to Stanford in 1924, when her father was named head of the geology department, and earned a BA in classics. An avid environmentalist and outdoorswoman, she backpacked in the high Sierra, hiked through Scotland and assisted with research on primates and on Polynesian cultures of the South Pacific. She was predeceased by her husband, James, in 1974. Survivors: her daughter, Emily Danford; two sons, Eliot and Richard; six grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; two sisters, Lois Fuller, '36, and Margery Alden, '28; and her brother, Richard Blackwelder, '31, PhD '34.”

“1927: Donald Alden [#52F221/1], MA '28, is "tottering along" with his wife of 70 years, Margery (Blackwelder, '28). They've lived in their Palo Alto home since 1952. The Aldens have moved downstairs to make life easier and have given the upper floor to their granddaughter, who helps them out. After graduation, Donald taught college, beginning in L.A. and retiring from San Jose State. Three of his brothers and a sister attended Stanford, more than 30 family members have Farm degrees, and a great-granddaughter is currently a student! Donald and Margery were both "faculty brats" -- his father chaired the English department, and hers was the geology department chair. Donald stays active, especially keeping track of their three daughters via e-mail. With one daughter in London, another a nurse in Marin County and the third in the South Pacific (Auckland, at last check), the computer is the best way to know what everyone is doing.”

"Birds Landing

Before the town was established, the Bird's Landing site, located a little north of Collinsville, was called Montezuma Crossing and served as a grain shipping point for John Bird. Arriving in Solano County in 1865, Bird bought 960 acres from Emory Upham and built a grain and dairy business. Four years later, he constructed a blacksmith shop at Montezuma Crossing. The town site at the intersection of Collinsville and Birds Landing Roads was founded and named after John Bird in 1876. Serving as the first postmaster, Bird circulated mail from the post office located inside a general store, which was built in 1876 by Moses Dinkelspiel and Jacob Frank of Suisun City.

The town began to grow in the 1880s with continuing prosperity until a disastrous fire in the early 1930s. The general store was spared and in 1921 when John Bird passed away, his sons, John Jr. and E.G. Bird, sold the store to Mr. and Mrs. Chris Benjaminsen. Mary A. Bird, the post mistress, arranged for the appointment of Mrs. E. Benjaminsen to the office. After owning the blacksmith shop for many years, John Bird sold it to Bill Kennedy, and in 1900, he sold it to Bert R. Blackwelder [#54B34]. Blackwelder became a successful businessman and was well-known throughout Solano County, where he established the Blackwelder Manufacturing Co. of Rio Vista. In the 1930s his company invented and manufactured one of the first sugar beet harvesters."

Solano Co., Vacaville, The Reporter, 6 Aug 2000, "Solano: The Way It Was"

"It's a small world. I had just returned from a trip to eastern Nevada when I received a call from Mrs. Florence McDougal of Lovelock, Nevada. Once a resident of Birds Landing, she corrected the date of operation of the Blackwelder shop from the 1930s to 1940s (See article dated 7/9/00). During a very enjoyable conversation she also told me that Leona Benjamin is a descendant of the Blackwelders.

Even though the McDougals do not live in the area any more, their pride in their old home town was easy to detect. Thanks for the info and great conversation Florence."
